

Top Technical Skills in IT Area

Application Development and Programming

Please, do not think that these skills are only for programmers and developers.

Any type of specialist working in IT area is much more attractive (for job recruiters) having some basic coding and programming skills.

Project Management

PM knowledge provides a range of guidelines and techniques to manage the work and increases the odds of being successful and therefore provides a significant value to the company.

Big Data Analytics

Effective big data analytics lead to high revenue opportunities, more effective marketing and sales, improved operational efficiency, and much more other business benefits.

Help Desk/Technical Support

Nowadays, the help desk is a very important advantage for many companies that brings them a range of benefits such as high levels of customer satisfaction. That is why help desk is among the top technical skills in the IT area.

Information Security

In IT area, the word "security" relates to the protection of information with the help of technology.

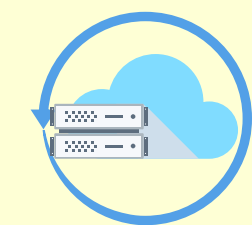

A wide range of enterprises in different industries increasingly expect their IS and IT professionals to have "security" knowledge.

Business Intelligence

Business Intelligence is for sure one of the most used words in the modern business world.

Business intelligence helps a business in many ways such as identifying its most profitable customers, problem spots, its return on investment and more.

Cloud/Software as a Service (SaaS)

SaaS is a software that is deployed over the internet. With SaaS, a provider licenses an application to users through a subscription. What is the most important here, is that SaaS is a rapidly growing market. Many IT experts think that SaaS will become commonplace within every organization.

Database Administration

Employers and IT job recruiters searching for people with knowledge in database administration and the ability to use and understand data reporting technologies and tools such as SQL, Oracle, DB2, and Hadoop.

Networking

In our ages, there is a generation of networking technology specialists who can design, and build up advanced technology networks able to connect everyone and everywhere.

Networking skills give you the opportunity to make a good career in almost any business including finance, transportation, manufacturing, education, health care, retail... and....etc.

Web development

It is known that the business widely use Web / Internet as one of the main channels for communication with customers, clients, partners, and etc.

Knowing how to work with HTML/CSS, JavaScript and Adobe CreativeSuite provide a range of career opportunities.

Other Important Technical Skills In IT Area

Virtualization

Mobile Development And Device Management

IT Architecture

Quality Assurance

Social Media Experience

Technical Writing

DevOps skills

Agile Methodology

Compiling Statistics and Statistical Analysis

Planning

Quantitative Research

Systems Analysis

